1. INTRODUCTION TO BUMUN IV

BUMUN is Bureche School's Model United Nations, created by and for students, in which each participant assumes the role of a delegate who represents a country or the position of a person on a specific topic of international politics. Its purpose is to give participants the opportunity to develop speech, debate, research, and problem solving skills, as well as allowing them to acquire knowledge on global politics and issues.

2. WHAT IS THE UNITED NATIONS?

The United Nations (UN) is a global intergovernmental organization founded in 1945, after the end of the Second World War, with the purpose of promoting peace, dialogue, security, and cooperation between countries around the world. 193 nations are members of the UN and work together on global issues such as the protection of human rights, prevention of conflicts, sustainable development, and joint operations & aid when necessary.

7. BUMUN IV COMMISSION RULES

The following rules establish the basic principles for the correct development of all BUMUN IV sessions:

- The official language for each commission must be utilized at all times during formal sessions. There are two commissions in English and five in Spanish.
- The delegates represent their country or signed congressperson and must act according to their position and international politics.
- The chair presides and directs the debate at all times which signifies that their indications and decisions on procedure must be respected always.
- Use of the floor is only allowed when it is recognized by the chair. Delegates must direct themselves towards the presidents by following the established procedures.
- The use of offensive discriminatory or disrespectful language is strictly prohibited at all times. As a result parliamentary language must be used within all sessions.
- Points and motions must correspond to and follow parliamentary procedure established within the BUMUN IV Conference Delegate Handbook.
- During the debate, delegates must maintain a diplomatic attitude, including in moments of disagreement with other delegations. On the contrary, they will assume consequences from the Board and Sponsors.
- Lobby time and negotiations must develop within the spaces and times authorized by the chair. Delegates must make correct use of session time to accomplish all commission objectives.
- Procedural decisions by the chair are definitive during the session, save cases where specific commission rules establish the contrary.
- Each commission may count with specific rules or particular procedures, which have priority when communicated by the chair.
- The use of artificial intelligence is strictly prohibited.

The objective of these general commission rules is to guarantee an organized, respectful, dynamic, diplomatic experience, faithful to what BUMUN IV seeks to offer. By not following one or more of the rules established here, you are subject to disciplinary measures by the academic presidents, sponsors or board.

- Conduct: Discriminatory, aggressive, and disrespectful conduct will not be tolerated.

Not following any of the rules listed here may result in disciplinary measures, according to the gravity of the situation and the criteria of the sponsors, presidents, chiefs, and board.

9. PARLIAMENTARY LANGUAGE

Parliamentary language refers to the words, phrases, and expressions permitted during debate time.

Delegates are reminded that, alongside the list, any expression that offends or is disrespectful towards any delegation should be modified. Ultimately, it is up to the discretion of the chairs what expressions are permitted.

By making use of prohibited expressions during informal or formal debate, points of order can be made against the delegate who did so. The chair must remind the delegate not to make use of such expressions and inform the delegate of the proper replacement.

During lobby time, prohibited expressions may be used in a respectful manner.

10. START OF DEBATE

10.1 Sessions
Official spaces in which commission work is realized, following rules and procedure previously established.

10.2 Roll Call
Procedure by which the chair verifies the assistance of the delegations and determines their position on voting.

10.3 Quorom
Minimum number of delegations necessary to formally begin with the committee's procedures and activities .

10.4 Establish Agenda
Process by which the committee determines the order in which topics will be discussed within the debate.

10.5 List of Speakers
Register of delegations that wish to intervene during the formal debate. The chair will assign use of the word following the corresponding order. In its absence, the list of delegations in alphabetical order will be used.

10.6 Opening Speech
Initial intervention in which each delegation presents their position, priorities, and primary proposal on the topic at hand. It has a duration of 1 minute and 30 seconds. If this time is exceeded, the chair will be obligated to stop the intervention. If time is leftover, the delegate has the option to cede the remaining time to the next speaker or to the chair. In BUMUN IV, for each of the two topics debated in the committee, delegates must prepare an opening speech.

10.7 Types of Debate

- 10.7.1 Formal Debate

  Type of structured debate where the usage of the word follows the order established by the list of speakers.

- 10.7.2 Informal Debate

  A more flexible type of debate in which delegations intervene solely when they wish to and have been recognized by the chair.

10.8 Lobby Time
Period destined for negotiation and collaboration between delegations for the exchange of proposals, the formation of alliances, and to work on the elaboration of documents. In this space, delegates may move freely within the floor and the strict adherence to parliamentary language is not required. This time is conventionally used to create working papers.

10.9 Suspend and Resume Session
Procedure by which the chair temporarily pauses the committee sessions and posteriorly resumes it, maintaining the continuity of the debate and its procedures.

11. RESOLUTION PAPERS

When a group of delegations shares similar positions on the topic, they may form a block to create a working paper. This document represents ideas and solutions that the block wishes to propose to the committee. If it is approved after a formal voting procedure, it becomes the committee's official resolution paper for the issue.

11.1 Required Elements

All working papers must include the following information in its heading:

- The paper number assigned by the Board
- The complete name of the committee
- The heads of the block, which are between two and three delegates in charge of directing the group.
- Redacting Countries, a maximum of 5 delegations responsible for writing the text. If more than 5 wish to participate, the heads of block must decide which delegations will be redacting and which will be solely signatories.
- The signatory Countries, which must include all delegations present in the committee. Before the working paper is read, the heads of block must turn in to the chair a written list with the signature of all delegates and the full name of the delegation they are representing.

The following is a resolution paper that follows all BUMUN IV Requirements:
EXAMPLE RESOLUTION PAPER

12. PRESS RELEASE

A press release is a document created by a delegate or a group of delegates to communicate their position, proposal, or response to extraordinary situations.

12.1 When to use a press release
A press release accomplishes multiple purposes. It can be used to respond to an emergency such as a crisis declared in the committee or by the secretary general. It can also be used by a minority in the committee or by a single delegation that has opted to not align itself with a block (a case where a single delegate may not make a working paper). In this sense it can be used to communicate a bilateral agreement between two delegations that are pertinent to the committee topic especially when both parties have decided not to align themselves with any of the principal blocks.

12.2 Characteristics of a press release
The Press release does not substitute a working paper or a resolution paper. Unlike a working paper, press releases are not subject to votation procedure by the committee nor do they have any binding character. They constitute expressions of opinion and allow a delegate to establish their positions in front of the committee.

12.3 Structure for a Press Release BUMUN IV

- Date & Place of emission
- Brief summary of the committee debate and proceedings
- Explanation of the delegation of delegations position on the topic, including motives for which they differ from proposals of other blocks.
- Presentation of the proposed solution on the issue in question.
- Signature

The following is an example of a Press Release that coincides with all of the BUMUN IV Requisites:
EXAMPLE PRESS RELEASE

13. PREAMBULATORY PHRASES AND OPERATIVE CLAUSES

13.1 Preambulatory phrases:
Introductory phrases explaining the happenings, importance of the problem and motives for which the committee has decided to take action. They do not propose solutions nor do they have binding character.

13.2 Operating causes:
They establish concrete actions, recommendations or specific measures which the committee proposes or mandates to aid in the issue. They are numbered and represent the executable nucleus of the document.

PREAMBULATORY PHRASES	OPERATING CLAUSES
• Affirming • Alarmed by • Approving • Believing • Confident that • Conscious of • Considering • Contemplating • Convinced that • Declaring • Deploring	• Accepts • Adds • Adopts • Approves • Calls for • Calls upon • Cooperates with • Decides • Defines • Encourages • Establishes

13.3 Format for Submitting the Working Paper

All BUMUN IV working papers must be submitted in accordance with APA 7 guidelines. Otherwise, they will be tabled immediately without being put to a vote. Preambulatory or operative phrases that are not included in the respective lists may not be used during the event.

14. AMENDMENTS

When a working paper is presented, the committee may suggest modifications or identify opportunities for improvement through friendly and unfriendly amendments. A maximum of 5 friendly amendments and 5 unfriendly amendments will be allowed per working paper. The presidents of each committee will carefully review each amendment to determine whether it will be incorporated into the paper.

14.1 Friendly Amendments

A friendly amendment is a spelling or grammatical correction suggested to a working paper that requires only the approval of the committee presidents. Once the presidents reach a consensus, the amendment is directly incorporated into the document without the need for debate or a vote.

14.2 Unfriendly Amendments

An unfriendly amendment is a structural or substantive change proposed by delegates, whether they are participants in the working paper or not. This type of amendment must be put to a vote by the bloc leaders and the sponsoring countries of the paper.

Bloc leaders must state, “In favor/Against, with reasons,” and have 30 seconds to justify their decision. Signatory countries, on the other hand, only need to approve or reject the amendment, without providing reasons.

Once a decision is reached, the amendment will either be incorporated into the final document or rejected, without the need for further debate.

14.3 Voting on Working Papers

Once the working paper has been read and the amendments have been considered, the document is put to a vote. During this procedure, the committee room remains closed, and floor messaging is disabled. The Chair will individually call upon each delegate to cast their vote. Delegates may respond as follows:

- In favor (with reasons)
- Against (with reasons)
- Abstention (permitted only for those who did not answer “present and voting” during roll call)

A working paper becomes a resolution upon obtaining a simple majority of votes. If this procedure is not followed within the committee, it will be at the discretion of the Secretariat to decide whether to revoke the paper or not.

14.4 Tabling a Working Paper

To table a working paper within the committee, it must have a minimum of 5 friendly amendments and 5 unfriendly amendments. Any other error within the document deemed sufficient to warrant the initiation of a working paper will be considered by the board. However, any situation not expressly provided for in this handbook, as well as the final decision to table the document, will remain at the discretion and under the judgment of the Chair.

15. BUMUN IV MOTIONS

15.1 Motion to Open/Close the Session:

Used at the beginning or end of a working session to formally declare the committee session open or adjourned.

15.2 Motion to Open the Speakers' List:

Allows the commencement of general speeches on the topic under discussion.

15.3 Motion for a Formal Debate:

Proposes using the Speakers' List or an alphabetical speaking order to discuss a topic for a set total time, assigning a maximum speaking time to each delegate.

15.4 Motion for an Informal Debate:

A more flexible debate format in which delegations speak only when recognized by the Chair, whenever delegates wish to take the floor.

15.5 Motion to Extend a Debate (Formal or Informal):

Allows delegates to request additional time to continue a discussion that has not yet concluded, provided that the extension is shorter than the original debate.

15.6 Motion to Introduce a Working Paper / Draft Bill:

Used to formally read and submit a draft document for the consideration of the Chair and the committee.

15.7 Motion to Table a Working Paper:

Requests that a working paper that has met the prior requirements (such as the inclusion of amendments) be submitted for discussion, subject to the discretion of the Chair.

15.8 Motion to Introduce Amendments:

Used to propose modifications, additions, or deletions to the clauses of a draft resolution before it is put to a vote.

15.9 Motion to Close Debate (Move into Voting Procedure):

Proposes ending the discussion phase of a topic or document and immediately proceeding to vote on the existing draft resolutions.

16. BUMUN IV POINTS

16.1 Point of Information

A point of information is a question directed to a speaker or the Chair. The Chair, in turn, will recognize committee members who have questions, as time permits. Once recognized by the Chair, the delegate will formulate a concise question directed to the speaker or the Chair. There will be no direct dialogue between the member asking the question and the speaker.

16.2 Point of Personal Privilege

A delegate may raise a point of personal privilege during the discussion of any matter when their ability to participate in the proceedings is affected in any way. The point of personal privilege is used to express discomfort or a specific need. If they wish to request permission to go to the bathroom, it is recommended that they do so through a written message to avoid interrupting the flow of debate.

16. 3 Point of Order

It is used to call the committee to immediate decorum. A delegate may raise this point when another delegate or the Chair does not follow parliamentary procedure or when an error has been made. This point must be raised at the moment the incident occurs, and the Chair must address it immediately. Delegates should refrain from using the point of order excessively, unless a procedural rule is being violated and its use is relevant.

16. 4 Point of Parliamentary Inquiry

A delegate may use a point of parliamentary inquiry to clarify any concerns related to parliamentary language or procedure. Similarly, it is used to request the translation of a word.

16.5 Point of Relevance

A delegate may use a point of relevance when they consider that a speaker's intervention is not relevant to the topic under discussion. Its acceptance is at the discretion of the Chair.

16.6 Point of Follow-up

This point is used when a delegate wishes to respond to a previous intervention in which their delegation was mentioned or alluded to by another delegate. It is at the discretion of the Chair to grant or deny this intervention.

17. CHALLENGE TO COMPETENCE VALID FOR BUMUN IV

A delegate may raise a challenge to competence when they believe that the committee or a delegation lacks the legal mandate or authority to debate a topic, or when a delegation has deviated from its assigned role by clearly violating its nation's foreign policy.

17.1 Procedure:

- The motion must be raised verbally and must be deemed admissible by the Chair.
- The proposing delegate must support their request with at least three (3) verified sources and identify three (3) statements made by the delegation in question, documented in the official committee record, that demonstrate the violation.
- If admitted, one (1) two-minute speech in favor by the proposing delegate and one (1) two-minute speech against will be heard.
- The motion will be put to a committee vote and will require a qualified majority (two-thirds) to pass.

17.2 Consequences of the Voting Outcome:

- If approved (two-thirds of the votes): The accused nation will lose its voting rights in all committees of the conference.
- If rejected: The proposing (accusing) nation will lose its voting rights in all committees of the conference.

Note: The sanctioned delegation will retain its presence in the committee room and may participate in debates, but it will not be allowed to vote on motions, procedural matters, or draft resolutions.

18. RIGHT OF REPLY

This point is utilized when a delegate wishes to respond to a previous intervention in which their delegation was mentioned or alluded to by another delegate. It is up to the discretion of the chair to concede this intervention or not.

19. CODE OF CONDUCT

This Code of Conduct applies to all delegates, chairs, members of the Secretariat, support staff, press, and guests throughout the duration of the event, including committee sessions, breaks, and any official BUMUN activities.

All Model participants are expected to maintain the highest standards of behavior and professionalism throughout the event. The following rules will govern the conduct of all attendees.

All participants must demonstrate the values of Bureche, aligned with the profile of the International Baccalaureate (IB) learning community, both within the facilities and during breaks. These attributes include being inquirers, knowledgeable, thinkers, communicators, principled, open-minded, caring, risk-takers, balanced, and reflective. Respect toward all participants must be maintained at all times; any inappropriate behavior during committee sessions, breaks, lunch, or other recesses may result in warnings or, in extreme cases, expulsion from the Model. All Colegio Bureche students remain subject to the institution's Student Handbook.

19.1 Prohibited Substances

The consumption of alcoholic beverages, tobacco, cigarettes, electronic cigarettes, and any other substances of this kind is strictly prohibited within the facilities and throughout all hours of the Model. This prohibition applies to all attendees without exception.

19.2 Movement and Permissions

Participants must remain within the Model's facilities during working and break periods. Any request for permission to leave must be approved by the Chair and by the teacher responsible for the institution to which the participant belongs.

19.3 Identification

The use of the official Model lanyard is mandatory at all times while on the premises.

19.4 Electronic Devices

The use of laptops, tablets, and mobile phones is authorized exclusively for activities related to the committee. Delegates who misuse these devices to access social media, messaging applications, games, or any other activity unrelated to the committee will be reprimanded and may lose the privilege of using them.

19.5 Communication and Messages

All messages exchanged between delegates must be handwritten notes and relevant to the development of the debate. Support staff members will review them; if they find inappropriate content, due process will be followed and the corresponding teachers responsible will be notified.

19.6 Reporting Situations

Any situation or concern that arises during the event must be reported to the Secretariat, other members of the Chair, or the teachers responsible. Respect toward all participants must be maintained both inside and outside the committee throughout the day. Any inappropriate behavior during breaks, lunch, or other recesses may also result in warnings or, in extreme cases, expulsion from the Model.

20. DISCIPLINARY MEASURES

- Warning: This measure applies when a delegate commits a minor offense for the first time due to a lack of knowledge of the rules. The Chair must issue a warning and, at the same time, inform the delegate that if the same infraction occurs three times or more, a sanction will be imposed.
- Sanction: This measure applies when a delegate violates the Model's rules or repeats a minor offense for which they have already received a warning. Sanctions vary according to the frequency of the infraction. The consequences of a sanction will be decided by the Board and/or Sponsors.

20.1 Sanctions

The first sanction is issued privately, unless the delegate's behavior disrupts or disturbs the order of the Assembly or committee.

The second sanction is issued publicly, and the delegate is warned that if they receive a third, they will be asked to leave the room.

The third sanction is issued publicly, and the delegate is removed from the room for the amount of time the Chair considers appropriate.

20.2 Punitive Measures

Removal from the room: This measure applies when a delegate accumulates three reprimands or commits a serious offense that disrupts the order of the Assembly or committee. In addition to the corresponding reprimand, the Chair determines the amount of time the delegate will remain outside the committee or room.

Expulsion from the Model: This sanction is considered when a delegate commits more than three offenses or an offense serious enough to permanently disrupt the order and character of their committee. Expulsion from the Model may also be applied in the event of any violation that the Chair and sponsors consider sufficient grounds for this measure.

21. COMMITTEE AT RISK

The Chair of a committee may declare a committee at risk when delegates have begun to lose order and abuse interrupting points. The Chair may announce that, from that moment onward, all points must be submitted in writing or that no further points will be entertained for the remainder of the Model.

22. LETTER FROM THE BUMUN IV CHAIR

Dear Delegates, Sponsors, and Participants,

Behind every page of this handbook, every rule and every topic addressed by the academic committees, lie months of hard work, enthusiasm, and a deep commitment to providing each and every one of you with an unforgettable experience. When we began working on this edition, we set out to create something more than just a conference or another event: we wanted to build a community where every voice matters and where the true heart of the Model lies not in the final paper, but in the energy, voice, and empathy that each of you will bring to the debate. We want every speech to reflect the passion of representing and defending a delegation with the power to inspire meaningful change within the international community, just as this year's slogan expresses: "Driven by passion, inspiring action."

Model United Nations conferences are much more than an academic activity; they are a safe space to build bridges, question complex realities, and develop solutions that address the many perspectives surrounding an issue. Throughout these three days, you will face challenges, opposing viewpoints, and moments of uncertainty in every working session. However, it is precisely in these moments that you will discover the value of your ideas and where your voices must resonate throughout the committee room. Remember that a delegate's success is measured not only by the resolutions passed, but also by their ability to listen to different perspectives, support fellow committee delegates, and inspire change from the local to the international level.

As your Secretariat, our greatest wish is for you to make the most of every moment of this event, embracing each experience with curiosity and respect while creating memories that extend beyond the walls of the debate chamber. We have complete confidence in the talent, dedication, and enthusiasm that each of you brings to your respective committees.

Thank you for placing your trust in us, for being part of this shared dream, and for reminding us every day of the true purpose behind everything we do. After all, it has all been,

"Driven by passion, inspiring action."

With endless gratitude,

The BUMUN IV 2026 Secretariat
